Vincennes University, a public two-year college located in Southwestern Indiana, invites applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions in the Department of Earth Sciences & Agriculture with the rank of Assistant Professor. Applicants should have both a Baccalaureate and Master's Degree in a field of Earth Sciences. Preference will be given to applicants with a formal background in GIS/GPS studies; experience in Science Education and teacher training programs and experience in providing on-line course instruction.

The two positions involve teaching lecture and laboratory classes at the Freshman/Sophomore college level in some combination of the following courses: Earth Science, Remote Sensing, Cartography, Physical Geology, Oceanography, World Geography, General Astronomy, Meteorology, and additional Departmental courses to be determined. The successful applicant may be assigned to teach classes in the day, evening, and weekends.

Assignments may include a combination of online or traditional formatted courses from one or more of the University campuses and off campus locations. Both openings are 100% teaching positions.

Applications will be accepted through April 28, 2006 with interviews to be conducted concurrently throughout the application period. Contracts for the two positions will begin August 15, 2006. Interested applicants should submit a letter of interest, resume, official college transcripts, and three letters of recommendation (at least one of the letters of reference should address teaching responsibilities and experience). All application materials should be sent to: Director of Human Resources, Vincennes University, 1002 N 1st Street, Vincennes, Indiana 47591 or email jobs@vinu.edu Application Information Postal
